REACHING THE SPOT.

It Can Be Done, So Scores of Norway Citizens Say.

To cure an aching back, The pains of rheumatism, The tired-out feelings, You must reach the spot—get at the cause.

In most cases 'tis the kidneys, Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys.

Mrs. Oscar H. Trimback living on High street, South Paris, Me., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of rheumatism after I had treated with doctors for months. I was confined to my bed and was told that I would not be able to walk again. However, I am now able to get around without difficulty and for several months have been enjoying good health. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me after everything else failed, and I really think they saved my life. More proof of the merits of this remedy can be had by calling at F. A. Shurtleff & Co.'s drug store."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York sole agents for the United States.

The Honeysuckle Vine.

When the honeysuckle breathes her benediction On the peaceful, dewy air at twilight's close She banishes all sorrow and affliction.

And whispers of the great Consoler's power; She whispers of the source of all her sweetness, Teaches the weary heart at dewy eve Of the grandeur, and the beauty and completeness Of Mother Earth, and questions why we grieve.

The passing zephyrs, idle, happy vagrants, Are parables of her bounty, all her fragrances, Not hers the heart to hoard her richest blessings.

With-holding from her less favored ones her store, But joyously she shares her wealth, confessing Whoso gives is ever sure of having more.

And so I revel freely in her sweetness, When twilight's curtains drape the glowing West, And gratitude and love have brought replete-ness From the empty, hungry longing in my breast.

And may I profit by the loving kindness Of the little, common, fragrant, homely vine, And whate'er mistakes I make in human blindness, May I ever share the best of what is mine.

NEW SCALP SPRAYER.

With It Tonics Can Be Put on Head Without Spilling Them.

People who have used hair and scalp tonics to any extent and experienced the difficulty in saturating the hair without saturating the clothing and carpet as well will appreciate the scalp sprayer designed by a New York man.

This device works on the principle of an atomizer. It consists of a base to which a ring is attached. In this ring is set a compressible rubber bulb, and leading from the bulb is a tube the ends of which is adapted to fit the contour of the head and which is equipped with perforations.

By placing this tube in the hair and pressing the bulb the tonic or perfume, or whatever the contents may be, is sprayed through the hair and over the scalp in such a way as to reach every point. Nor is there the muss attached to the old method of shaking an inverted bottle over the head, hitting the mark occasionally and decorating the wall paper at other times; also there is a saving in tonic, and the job is more complete.

Corsets in Gowns.

Paris is sending many of its new gowns to us with corsets made in them. For the tall, slim girl this is really just the touch to give the real emphyse effect. These gowns are well holding their own and from present indications will continue to do so for quite a time to come.

For a woman with the slightest inclination to stoutness this boning of the frock, no matter how much there is of it, is not sufficient harness. Her hips must be held down. But the slender girl can wear the boning with the greatest ease and satisfaction.

They are regular corsets, and the frock is made to their shape. They are laced after the gown is on.

On each side of the back for a space of two or three inches corset and gown are left free of each other. After the lacing has been done the frock is hooked up.

If the opening happens to be at one side of the back, so many things have it at present, it simply means that the two must be left free of each other a few inches more on one side.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to thank the relatives and friends; also the members of Kezar Lake Grange, North Lovell, the Rev. Mr. Card, and all who so kindly assisted us in every way during our late bereavement, and for the many beautiful floral offerings.

Mrs. G. M. HARRIMAN, Mrs. and Mrs. F. L. HARRIMAN, GUY AND EDNA HARRIMAN.

NORTH LOVELL. George M. Harriman died at his home in North Lovell, Thursday, June 24. He had suffered from paralysis about a year though he was able to be about. He was born in Lovell, March 6, 1844, his parents being John and Alice (McDaniel) Harriman. He attended school there and lived in Lovell the most of his days.

Mr. Harriman followed the business of a farmer. In politics he was a Democrat.

He was a charter member of the Christian church; a charter member of Park-er Post, Lovell Center; a charter member of Kezar Lake Grange, North Lovell, and a man prominent in the business affairs of the place in which he lived. One by one the old soldiers are passing on.

He married Carrie M. Palmer in Lovell Nov. 4, 1868 and they leave one child, Fred L. Harriman, a carpenter of Norway.

Besides his immediate family he leaves many other relatives and friends.

The funeral was from his late home June 27th, Rev. Mr. Card of Center Lovell being the attending clergyman. It was largely attended and the people who have known him. The floral offerings were beautiful:

Mrs. George Harriman—Pillow of roses with word Husband.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Harriman, children—Wreath of roses with word Father.

Guy E. and Edna L. Harriman, grandchildren—8 white pinks.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. P. Kimball, Norway—Carnation pinks.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Currier, Norway—Bouquet of carnation pinks.

Mr. and Mrs. Newton Newkirk, Boston—Bouquet of carnation pinks.

Alma Harriman, Norway—Carnation pinks.

Grange—Wreath with F. of H.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Hilton—Cut flowers.

Mrs. Sylvester Adams—Roses and cut flowers.

Edwin and Fred Allen—Roses and cut flowers.

Mrs. Lewis McAllister—Yellow roses.

Mrs. Flora McKee—Roses.

Mrs. Joseph Parker—Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronello Andrews—Cut flowers.

W. A. Allen—Cut flowers.

Mrs. Angus McKee—Ported plants.

Mrs. Melvin Allen—Cut flowers.

Mrs. Harry McKee—Cut flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Garcelon—Carnation pinks.

Mr. and Mrs. Forley McAllister—White roses.

Wild strawberries are plenty in this vicinity.

Mrs. Emma Wilson was at home from Norway last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Davey and Ted Davey have returned to New Jersey.

George Wilson, who has been working in Sweden, has visited his son, C. F. Wilson.

Mrs. Carrie Harriman and son Fred and family have gone to their home in Norway for a few days' stay.

NORTHWEST BETHEL. Mrs. Fred Chapman has been visiting in Portland.

Mrs. Oliver Gould and children of Portland have been visiting at H. N. Upton's.

Our term of district school closed Friday. Miss Hapgood is a successful teacher.

Mrs. Dana Rand and three children of Mechanic Falls have been visiting her father, Asa Stowell.

Mrs. E. S. Porter and Mrs. R. W. Starbird of Portland have been visiting their cousin, Mrs. Mary Wilson.

Orville Kilgore is now at work for I. H. Wilson. Leroy Lane works for him some days when he can be spared at home.

Mrs. Villa Small, who formerly lived here, returned from Shelburne to the home which her father, A. Mason, purchased recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Verrill who have been away from Bethel ten years, have been visiting their old neighbors here and called at Forest home.

NORTHWEST ALBANY. O. W. Rolfe was in Bethel, Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Mills have been the guests of their daughter, Mrs. Irving Hutchinson.

Mills & Rolfe are sawing long lumber. E. W. Rolfe is hauling lumber to West Bethel for D. Edwards.

D. Edwards, wife and daughter, and a lady friend have been the guests of Mrs. Edwards' uncle, G. B. Mills.

Carlton L. Mills has finished work in Waterford, and is stopping with his sister, Mrs. Irving Hutchinson.

H. O. Rolfe, wife and daughter of East Waterford, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Rolfe, also G. M. Rolfe and family and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Rolfe, Sunday.

RAINY DAY WISDOM. The girl who chooses the rainy day to overhaul all her belongings at once may wish she had not been so energetic if the sun fools her by coming out unexpectedly.

The girl who selects the rainy day to go in sloppy attire is a depressing sight for her family and generally gets fooled in her belief that "no one will call such a day."

Don't choose the rainy day to be so gloomy that crape on a door seems cheerful in comparison. If you must get low in your mind, when the sun shines is more opportune.

If you ever keep sweet, do so in a downpour. To scowl or frown one's in-offensive family when shut in the house by bad weather is as mean as cornering a woman to learn her age.

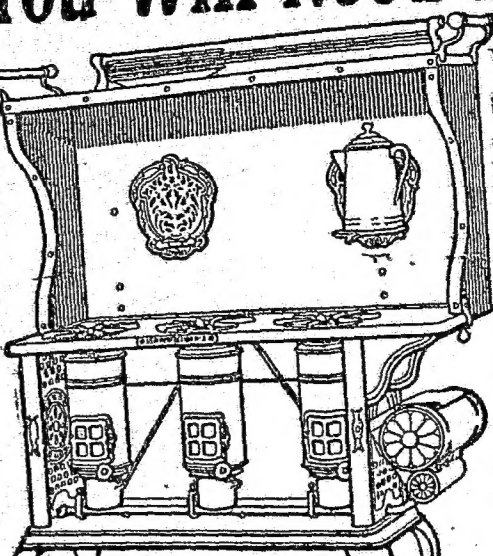

Instead of growling at the "beasty day," try the soothing power of keeping busy. There is nothing like a rainy day to repair the ravages of one's wardrobe or to catch up in back letters.

The girl who cultivates catlike hatred of getting wet loses a big opportunity to improve her complexion. A walk in the rain is not only an antidote for blues, but is a wonderful tonic to the skin.

Don't look out the window every five minutes for sight of the sun nor bore your family with the useless whine, "I wish it would clear." The sun never shone for wishing, and clouds are not lightened by thunderclouds within.

You Will Need an Oil Stove

When warm days and the kitchen fire make cooking a burden—then is the time to try a New Perfection Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove. Marvelous how this stove does away with kitchen discomforts—how cool it keeps the room in comparison with conditions when the coal fire was burning. The is the only oil stove built with a CABINET TOP for holding plates and keeping food hot after cooking. Also has useful drop shelves on which to stand the coffee pot or teapot after removing from burner. Fitted with two nicked racks for towels. A marvel of comfort, simplicity and convenience. Made in three sizes—with or without Cabinet Top. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agent.

Just such a The Rayo Lamp lamp as every one wants—hand-some enough for the parlor; strong enough for the kitchen, camp or cottage; bright enough for every occasion. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agent.

The Good the Ill Wind Blew

By VIRGINIA BLAIR.

Copyrighted, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.

"Nothing could be more unfortunate," said Miss Cynthia. "Mazie agreed dejectedly. 'If she had come at any other time.' 'She will expect to be entertained,' Miss Cynthia chimed in. 'Mazie, tying on her veil before the mirror, decided: 'We can have some good times with the girls. But there won't be any men, and Constantia can't exist without men.' 'Nonsense,' said Miss Cynthia. 'She'll have to when she comes to Hilton.' Mazie talked the situation over later with Serena Sears. 'You see, I met Constantia at the seashore the summer I went with the Merrills, and I had lovely clothes, and we lived at the best hotels and did everything in the most approved way. 'I told Constantia that when I was at home with Aunt Cynthia I didn't have all the advantages and that my outfit with the Merrills was just their farewell treat before they went abroad. But Constantia can't understand what life at Hilton is, and she will expect a gay time.' 'Well, it's an ill wind that blows nobody any good,' said Serena sentimentally. 'Perhaps she will live up to a bit.' 'Constantia could live up to a nunnery," Mazie told her, "but Hilton is hopeless." Letters coming from Constantia told of her preparations. "She is getting lots of pretty clothes," Mazie reported to Serena, "and where is she going to wear them?" But Serena, true to her name, would not worry. "She will delight our eyes with them," she said. "I haven't seen an up to date gown for so long that I'd rather gaze on it than on a Rembrandt." The day of Constantia's arrival Mazie put the big old fashioned house in order, while Aunt Cynthia baked delectable tarts.

Serena Sears came in the afternoon. "If Constantia hasn't the good taste to enjoy this lovely old room and Aunt Cynthia's tea and muffins and coconut cake she's a benighted individual," said she. "But think of Constantia trailing pale blue broadcloth on this old rug!" wailed Mazie. Mazie walked to the station, but she brought Constantia back in the only cab the town afforded. It was shabby and ramshackle, but the little horse was plump, and so was the driver.

"We feed people and animals well in Hilton," Mazie explained to Constantia. "Eating is our only diversion." Constantia dimpled. "I think Hilton is dear," she emphasized. But after they had driven a little way she said suddenly, "Mazie Langley, I don't believe I have seen a single man since we left the station." "There aren't any," Mazie informed her. "I warned you. I told you in my letters that Hilton was deadly dull."

Constantia's laugh rippled. "Oh, you goose," she said, "as if I cared! It will be a rest, if the girls are nice—a sort of bachelor girls' paradise." Mazie nodded. "There is nothing for men to do in these Hampshire hills," she said, "and except a few merchants and the minister and the doctor there aren't any."

"Well, I wish Bobbie Dwyer could hear that," Constantia murmured. "Who is Bobbie Dwyer?" Mazie demanded. "Bobbie," Constantia explained, with elaborate and strangely earnest scornfulness, "is a lord of creation. I was engaged to him until one day he tried to dictate to me! Then, of course, I broke it off and told him there were some worse things than being an old maid, and he flung back at me that he should live single, for he could never trust a woman again, and then I told him that an old maid was happier than a bachelor, and he said if I tried I'd find out, and oh, I wish you had heard us!" And in spite of the tragedy of her recital Constantia laughed. "And I'm glad there aren't any men here—I hate them!"

Mazie's face glowed. "We will have a lovely time if you feel that way," she said. Just then the ramshackle cab rounded a curve, and there was the old house, with Aunt Cynthia at the window and the light shining out behind her, and they went in and had tea and muffins and little cakes, and Mazie feasted her eyes on the picture Constantia made in her modish gown.

The next day Serena Sears came over. "Mazie told me how pretty you were," she said quaintly, "and I told her I'd rather see you than a picture, but you are better than a whole art gallery." And that afternoon a lot of girls came, pretty and fluttering creatures, who hung about Constantia admiringly. "I love girls," she said when they had gone away. That night more girls came, and in the afternoon there was a girls' tea, and at night a feminine galaxy came over and sat around the fire and popped corn and sang college songs. When Constantia and Mazie went to bed that night the pretty guest remarked, "I love girls," but her voice lacked eager enthusiasm.

Several days later Serena Sears gave a dance. "Of course there won't be any men," she said, "but we can all dress up and dance with each other, and the girls are crazy to see that white chiffon of yours, Constantia." But when Constantia was arrayed in all her glory she surveyed herself thoughtfully in the mirror. "It seems a bit wasted," she murmured. "Bobbie always liked me in white." The dance was not a great success. It lacked something, and that something Constantia said equivocally was men.

In the days that followed the girls still fluttered and admired, but Constantia looked at them with speculative eyes. "It's a pity," she said over the teacups to Mazie, "that so many lovely girls should not marry." "I thought old maidism was the happiest state," Mazie ventured. "Of course for me," Constantia said hastily, "but for you and Serena and the others—oh, you ought to meet some nice men!" And all that evening she was dreamy, and before she went to bed she wrote a letter.

Then she planned to give a cotillon before she left town. "I will have the favors and refreshments sent out from the city," she said. "Everybody here has been so kind that I want to be hostess before I go." Aunt Cynthia was induced to consent, and the girls of Hilton got out their best gowns. When the caterer came with his host of assistants Aunt Cynthia sought Constantia in a great state of excitement. "You have ordered far too much," she said. "There was a faraway look in Constantia's eyes. 'They will eat it up,' she promised. "But girls have such delicate appetites," Aunt Cynthia protested. "Oh, girls!" Constantia murmured and dropped the subject.

But when she came downstairs to greet her guests she was so radiantly beautiful in pink and silver, with her eyes like stars, that Mazie caught her breath as she looked at her. "Constantia!" she cried. "What has happened?" Just then from without came the "honk-honk" of a motor horn, which was echoed by another and another, and as Mazie flung open the door, with the bery of pretty girls behind her, there rolled up to the step a big red car in which were half a dozen radiant youths, and in the second car and in the third and the fourth, so that in all there were twenty-four men to match the twenty-four girls that Constantia had invited.

"I told Bobbie to bring them," Constantia said as she made the introductions, and when they had all danced away together she said to Bobbie Dwyer, who was hanging over her adoringly, "Men have their place—at a dance." "How about husbands?" he demanded very promptly and authoritatively. Constantia dropped her lashes over her happy eyes. "Oh, well," she capitulated, "I should hate to condemn you to bachelorhood, Bobbie, dear!" But it was Serena who summed things up when three months later half a dozen engagements were announced in Hilton, among them Mazie's and her own.

"I told you the ill wind would blow some good," she said. "It blew Cupid into Hilton with Constantia." Tale of a Car Ticket. There was a goodly proportion of young men in the Sixteenth street car when she got in. It was a car with seats running longwise, so that the doubly blessed youths on the opposite side of the car could gaze to their hearts' content. And gaze they did, for never did car carry lovelier freight. Unaware that her advent in the car had changed the heart action of any of its passengers, her glorious brown eyes glanced serenely along the palpitating line of masculinity opposite as she took a ticket from her strip and placed it between her rosy lips while she replaced the strip in her tiny purse. Lucky ticket! The enraptured young man nearest the door would have parted with a five spot to possess that equivalent of four and one-sixth cents. But here comes the strangest part. The conductor also noticed this most delectable resting place of milady's car ticket. And the conductor was young and not half bad looking, and the conductor was also smitten. A tiny hand reached up to the distracting mouth and, removing the ticket, handed it to the conductor. It is said that he blushed. Certain it is that he took the fare tenderly between two fingers and glanced at it pensively. Then—and the young man nearest the door is ready to swear to it—he deposited it carefully in an inside pocket, far removed from the storing place of all common tickets. And the question is, What did he do with it?—Pittsburg Press.

In a Perfume Factory. Musk is perhaps the most valuable and delightful of all perfumes, yet the refiner as he opens the musk pods must wear thick cloths over mouth and nostrils, so repulsive is the odor that the pods emit. Indeed, this odor, inhaled for any length of time, causes nosebleed. Civet, karagulluc and ambergris have in small quantities a delectable perfume, but in large quantities they smell so abominable as to give the worker nausea. The hawthorn blossom is delicately sweet, and perfumers prize it highly, yet a roomful of hawthorn blossoms smells like a charnel house. This, too, is true of the tuberose.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

"Scuse me, ma'am," said the musky hobo; "but, ez you kin see, I ain't hardly got a rag 't me back. Can't you do sumthin' fer me?" "Certainly," replied the kind lady. "Here's the rag bag. Help yourself."—Detroit Tribune.

Wood by the Cord.

Things the Woodsmen Know that May Not Be Known to Others. A cord of wood is 128 cubic feet, or the contents of a pile 8 feet long, 4 feet high and 4 feet wide. Wood is marketed on this basis. A pile whose length, breadth and height multiplied together gives this number of cubic feet fills this quantity, no matter whether the sticks are long or short, straight or crooked, round or split, unless there is an understanding to the contrary. Nevertheless a cord though it comes up to the legal measurements, is an uncertain quantity even when the seller is honest and the buyer is satisfied.

A lumberman may have a tract of pulp wood which he sells to a paper mill at $5 a cord for as many cords as it will make. It is in the contract that he shall cut and stack it. He cuts it in 12 foot lengths and when the job is complete it measures 200 cords and he receives $1000 for it. Would he have made or lost by cutting four feet lengths instead of twelve? He would have lost in the first place from the additional labor required to cut four foot wood, but his principal loss would have resulted from a greatly diminished number of cubic feet, due to the fact that short sticks lie closer together than large. Had the 200 cords of 12 foot wood been cut in four foot lengths there would have been only 176 cords and the owner would have received $880 instead of $1000. It was therefore clearly to his advantage to cut 12 foot lengths but it would have been to the buyer's advantage to have it cut in four foot lengths. He would have received the same actual quantity for $120 less.

It also makes considerable difference to the seller whether wood is chopped or sawed. If chopped the chips are lost. Where the logs are large this loss amounts to no small total. In a cord of four foot wood with sticks six inches in diameter, the chip loss is from 6 to 8 per cent, and of course the shorter the sticks are cut the greater the loss. If the wood is sawed the sawdust loss is scarcely the half of 1 per cent.

Cords of split wood contain less than cords of round sticks. The finer the wood is split the more it makes. Hence wood dealers are often willing to sell kindlings all saved and split for the same price a cord, as unsplit wood. They get back the cost of labor in the increased bulk.

A cord (128 cubic feet) of 4 foot hard wood usually contains about 58 cubic feet of solid wood, a cord of 3 foot wood averages 83½ cubic feet, of 2 foot wood 84 feet, and 1 foot wood 85 feet. The conifers (soft woods) contain 90 to 96 cubic feet. Thus the purchaser receives on an average about two thirds of a cord of real wood and one third of a cord of spaces.

In some countries wood is bought by weight and the buyer comes more nearly getting what he bargains for, but even then he may miss it if he receives green wood when he wants dry. According to timber testing engineers of the United States forest service wood may lose one half or more its green weight in seasoning.

EAST HIRAM.
The young people of Mt. Outler Grange gave a Mother Goose party at their hall. Mrs. Ella Lombard Clemens and young son, Everett, spent Thursday with her sister, Mrs. Elsie Jewell in Baldwin. Floyd W. Burnell and wife are at home from Natick, Mass., where he has been teaching in the High School the past year. Willis R. Burnell has a Rhode Island hen that laid an egg last week measuring 9½ by 6½ inches and weighing 4½ ounces.

An interesting Children's Day concert was given at the Congregational Church Sunday evening by a union of the three Sunday schools. Mr. Edward L. Allen, who broke his wrist recently by falling 15 feet from the high beams of his barn, is able to ride about town and is gaining well. Among the many guests in town this week are Eleanor and Doris Rankin of Woodford at N. R. Flint's; Mrs. H. H. Burbank of Fryeburg at E. C. Burnell's; Mrs. Sadie Winters and daughter of South Braintree, Mass., at E. L. Flint's.

N. R. Flint and wife went to Baldwin last Saturday to spend Sunday with Mrs. Flint's brother, R. A. Burnell and wife. All enjoyed the day very much as it was the forty-fourth anniversary of their wedding, the two couples being married June 27, 1865, by Rev. Albert Cole of Cornish.

Dress For Young Mothers.
A grandmother once made the remark, "The worst dressed women in the world are young mothers." And somehow or other that remark brings to mind a number of young women who do grow careless when their pride and ambition is directed toward another in the home. The kimono is a good make-shift, the wrapper is brought into use, the hair is not so carefully arranged and yet the baby will be dressed his prettiest, sometimes several times a day. Do not forget yourself. No doubt your wardrobe will be depleted, but you should always have a neat outfit to wear. A plain dress with a princess apron always looks well and the princess apron can be made of dainty material and will present a neat appearance. The princess dress, buttoned at the front, is a pretty type, more attractive than a shirt waist suit, and more easily donned. House dresses must be fresh and clean to look tidy. Devote time to dressing even if the Prince of Wales does cry. He is going to do it anyway to expand his lungs for health's sake, and so long as he doesn't cry until he is black in the face, he may as well do so while you take time to put on the pompadour and dress.

More miles of state road will be built in Maine this year than there were last or in any one year since the state has been furnishing aid to the cities and towns, but it is doubtful if little or anything is done a trunk line through the state. Nearly every city and town in the state made an application for state aid in road building this year, but in a sense when the state is taken as a whole it will be like patchwork, a little piece here and a little piece there, scarcely any two towns building in the same direction and uniting.

People who think that happiness is something that can be purchased with money, should remember the story of the beggar king who was suffering from some wasting disease and who was told by his physician that the only cure was to wear a shirt that had been worn by a man who was really and truly happy. After long and persistent search, this happy man was found, but it was also discovered that he did not have a shirt.

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for much sickness and suffering, therefore, if kidney trouble is permitted to continue, serious results are most likely to follow. Your other organs may need attention, but your kidneys most, because they do most and should have attention first. Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. A trial will convince you of its great merit. The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest because its remarkable health restoring properties have been proven in thousands of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best.

Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, and don't let a dealer sell you something in place of Swamp-Root—if you do you will be disappointed.

ALBANY.
The new Grange Hall.
The grangers have a nice foundation in the walls up for their new hall on the lot where Mr. McNally's buildings were burned a year ago. It will be 30 by 54 feet, two stories with a stable room in the basement.

Amos L. Bean has a crew building a telephone line from Mason over Grover Hill to Bethel central.

Frank Cundall of the firm of E. M. Cundall & Son of Boston, has come to his summer home for a few weeks.

J. F. Rich and family are at their cottage at Songo pond, and are improving things around his nice cottage there.

The Ladies' circle was entertained July 1st, by Mrs. Lydia Fernald, Mrs. Myra Lord and Mrs. Amelia Grover, a large number were present and a very pleasant time enjoyed.

L. J. Andrews had the misfortune to lose a nice cow for which he had offered fifty dollars. He found her dead in the barn on going out to milk. She seemed layed down to sleep and died without a struggle. No cause known.

Henry Briggs an Albany boy, who has lived in New Gloucester for several years, called on friends at the corner. His wife and three children, also two friends are with them. They think the scenery is something grand and such good air and water. They seem just delighted here.

E. T. Judkins was surprised on going to the pasture to find his Jersey heifer was dead. Only last year Mr. Judkins lost two nice cows, from the effects of eating wilted cherry leaves that was thrown into the pasture. It seems hard to lose a cow when they are so scarce and high.

Valley Road.
Mrs. Myra Lord, Mrs. Amelia Grover and Mrs. Lydia Fernald entertained the circle at the vestry July 1. Between 60 and 70 people partook of the bountiful supper. After supper the following program was given:

EAST OXFIELD.
A Trip to Peaks Island.
A very pleasant and profitable term of school taught by Charles Burns of Oxford, closed last week in the Wardwell district. The same interest and good will between teacher and pupils was manifest as in the previous terms.

At the beginning of the term the teacher requested the pupils to collect and study wild flowers. The one collecting the most to receive a reward. Good interest was shown by all, two however advanced far beyond the rest both by showing greater interest in the work and in collecting a greater number of flowers.

Joseph Greenleaf had 250 and Amy Lozier 260. Being equal and about 200 more than the next higher both will be rewarded by a trip to Peaks Island with their teacher, Mr. Burns.

Mrs. Abbie Thurlow spent last Wednesday with Mrs. P. C. Greenleaf.

Golden Rule branch of I. S. S. will hold an all day meeting with basket lunch with Mrs. Jessie Lozier on Tuesday, July 13.

Mrs. Alice Knightly and son William of Watford, visited her brother, Albert Holden, and aunt, Mrs. P. C. Greenleaf, last week.

Charles Burns took his scholars and parents last Friday to Kamps camp by Lake Thompson, for a picnic. A very pleasant day was passed, all having a ride in the new motor boat recently purchased by Burns brothers.

A party of young friends hung Joseph Greenleaf a June box last Wednesday evening, containing a nice birthday cake, it being his 13th birthday. Music was enjoyed then cake and ice cream were served, and a pleasant evening was enjoyed.

O. W. H. Judkins took Flora J. Cummings and Melville Twissell to Albany the 6th to visit P. T. Judkins.

Brilliant exhibition of fireworks at Mrs. F. A. Hunt's residence July 5th in the evening. People from South Paris and N. H., witnessed it besides the nearer residents.

Spaulding Abbott has bought a farm, the Crosby place in the East part of Norway, but who the lucky girl will be he chooses for a permanent housekeeper remains to be seen.

Destroys Hair Germs
Recent discoveries have shown that falling hair is caused by germs at the roots of the hair. Therefore, to stop falling hair, you must first completely destroy these germs. Ayer's Hair Vigor, new improved formula, will certainly do this. Then leave the rest to nature.
Does not change the color of the hair.
Formula with each bottle
Show it to your doctor
Ask him about it, then do as he says

Recent discoveries have also proved that dandruff is caused by germs on the scalp. Therefore, to cure dandruff, the first thing to do is to completely destroy these dandruff germs. Here, the same Ayer's Hair Vigor will give the same splendid results.

THE GLASS OF FASHION

Smart New York Women Use Triple Full Length Mirrors.

THE FLOWER TRIMMED VEIL.

Spring Hats Bring Teeth and Nose Into Prominence and Play Hides and Seek With Wearers' Faces—Models More Eccentric Every Day.

Dear Elsa—Dick has just given me an Easter present that is going to be the comfort of my life. Yes; I know that in the proper sequence of things I should have been so delighted and surprised (I bought it myself) to find the gift in my dressing room on Easter morning, but the truth is I just couldn't wait any longer without a peep into my full length triple mirror, for that's the present I should be receiving on Sunday morning, April 11. I do wonder, though, what I really will find beside my breakfast plate on this auspicious morning. But it's too horrible to think of.

rid of me even to auto-suggest the idea of a jolly good time. Still, I would give Dick a jolly good time if he remembered how I liked that—No; I won't even tell you what it was. It's too grasping—in fact, piggyish—of me.

But to describe this mirror. Every woman nowadays who goes in for dress as a fine art—and most all New York women do—are obliged to own one of these glasses. When fashions are so freakish one cannot run the risk of appearing in a more outlandish guise than Mme. la Mode intends one should. One does not feel safe in being assured by one's mirror that she is well put up from one vantage point. She must be sartorially perfect from every angle. Now, this is exactly what the triple mirror does for you. And if used faithfully—sounds like a patent medicine ad., doesn't it?—at each dressing you know to a certainty whether you turtlet your neck or carry it gracefully poised, whether your Dominican gown with its penitential lines makes you resemble Friar Tuck in his monk's robe or whether your Psyche would meet the approval of the early Greeks.

As for your hat—why, a "chopping bowl" affair even has attractions viewed from the right angle triangle of a triplicate. You know what a vast difference the least difference in the adjustment of a chapeau means to femininity, exactly the difference between good looks and ugliness.

That awfully good manicurist I have told you about uses a triple mirror when she works with the hands of her patrons. In this glass she shows them how to avoid unsightly poses of the hands that are seen by their neighbors at card table or dinners.

The way I'm booming these mirrors will probably lead you to suppose that I have the agency for disposing of them. Unfortunately this luck goes to a Fifth Avenue firm. But I am crazy over the thing and just sporty enough to risk seeing myself as others see me. Of course I'm not often satisfied with the result; but as Browning says, the possible best is a comfort to achieve.

And talking of Browning reminds me of Dick's latest piece of impudence. You know, dear, we have just organized a literary club in our neighborhood, and the other afternoon I found Dick home when I came from the last meeting. "Well," he asked cheerfully, looking up over the top of his paper, "what was the topic under discussion?" "The club," this after consultation with Dr. Craft of North what we had been talking about. Everything was so stupid. Then finally I blurted out: "Oh, yes, I recollect the club."

We discussed that horrid woman that's moved in across the street, and Longfellow." I actually failed to realize what I'd said until a perfect howl greeted my abstracted ears. Nasty of him, wasn't it?

I am absolutely fagged out from trying to run a spring hat to cover that I could wear without looking a fright in, and I think I have succeeded in capturing the brush, to use a hounding term, in the chapeau of bronze green straw I have sketched for you. In the season's medley of shapes this is a very conventional model, but it has a signature inside the crown that would satisfy any woman of its chicness, even if she overlooked the lovely great white marsh roses about the crown and the long ends of bronze velvet ribbon that tie under the chin. The average hats of the spring are wildly eccentric, and there is more than one shape. There's the funnel, the flowerpot and the large spreading tray from which to select, but there is one trait common to them all—they play hide and seek with their wearers' faces. Two features these hats do bring into prominence—the teeth and the nose. So if a girl has a good set of teeth and a bad nose, or the reverse, she's between the devil and the deep sea, and it would be better to select a model more impartial in its demands. But you, dear, are fortunate in having a face any hat would be proud to adorn.

The newest thing in veils has flowers attached at the top, where it is arranged about the hat. I saw a stunning woman at Sherry's the other afternoon wearing a small blue turban in dull, spiky straw, with a face veil of blue net caught irregularly around the top with tiny shaded pink and red roses. This veil was put on in such a way that the roses outlined the crown, and there was no crushing or catching of the flowers, as is the case when the veil is adjusted over the flowers. Just try the effect of a similar arrangement and see how fetching it is.

Elizabeth X. has just called me up on the phone and asked me to go with her to the Colony club to see the loan exhibition of household arts of the eighteenth century. This is the smartest woman's club in the country. Mrs. John Jacob Astor, I think, is the president, and I will have lots to tell you about what I saw when I "take my pen in hand again" to give you a prosy glimpse of the doing of "little old New York." Until then, yours lovingly, MABEL.

To Freshen Fur.
Fur coat collars and, in fact, any kind of fur neck dressing are apt to become soiled and altogether dull looking just at the back on account of rubbing on the hair.

It is a good plan to shake talcum powder into the collar when putting it away, shaking it out again when needed for wear the next time.

Done frequently, this will retain or restore the gloss to the fur, as the case may be, while for light furs, such as chinchilla and ermine, it will be cleansing.

To Protect a Bureau.
One housekeeper who has malmalony bedroom furniture and a careless family has hit upon a way to protect the top of her bureau. She buys a remnant of white oilcloth and has it cut to fit the top of the bureau. This is put on beneath the ordinary bureau cover.

Naturally, a cover that is not transparent must be used, but those not pique or heavy linen are both smart and serviceable, and the oilcloth only keeps the wood from scratching, but prevents more serious scarring from hot curling irons or dropped matches.

LOVELL.
The graduating exercises of the Lovell village school took place at Pine Grove hall, Friday evening. There were ten in the class and the parts were all given in a very fine manner and were worthy of a class of older scholars.

The music was furnished by the Robinson Family orchestra, Brighton. The diplomas were presented by the superintendent of schools, Dr. E. J. Noyes.

The teacher, Arthur D. Newman of Fryeburg, has kept an excellent school and it was through his untiring efforts that such a graduation was made possible.

There was a concert and dance given at Pine Grove hall on Monday evening, by the Lovell band, and a good number in attendance.

Some from the village attended the celebration and dance at North Lovell, Saturday, others went to Brighton and Cold River, Monday, while the greater part remained at home.

James H. Walker is suffering from a severe attack of rheumatic fever and has a nurse from Portland. Owing to his illness the usual Fourth of July morning celebration of church bells, cannon crackers, tin horns, etc., was omitted.

No. 4.

Glaced Fruits and Nuts.
To make the glaze, put a pound of granulated sugar and a scant cup of cold water in a saucepan and let it stand half an hour until the sugar is dissolved. Then set over the fire, where it can be trusted to boil without stirring or jarring the kettle. To insure safety it is well to place an asbestos mat under the pan.

When the bubbles on the surface of the syrup begin to look tough test by dropping teaspoonful in a cup of cold water. If it falls to the bottom with a brittle, clogging sound, add two table-spoonfuls of vinegar and lift at once from the fire.

Set the pan in a larger basin of hot water and dip in orange carrels held by the tips, cherries, grapes and other fruits one by one, then place on oiled paper to harden.

Do not use much motion in dipping the fruit lest the syrup granulate. A candy dipper that may be purchased at any department of candy store facilities the dipping. Cherries and grapes or any fruit with stems are easy to dip, but the nuts are harder. If the syrup becomes too cold before all the fruit has been dipped, it can be reheated.

As fast as each pan is filled with the glaced fruit, set in an open window or other cold place to harden. If the glaze is not complete with the first dipping, repeat the operation, adding a little more water to the syrup and repeating until it stands the test. Figs, dates and prunes are all nice for a glaze.

GREENWOOD.
At the Close of Schools.
The spring term of school on Patch M. closed Friday July 2 with the following pupils in attendance: Roy N. Morgan, Willie E. Morgan, George D. Ver-rill, Ned E. Herriek, Madeline A. Peabody, Louie E. Peabody, Raymond B. Swan, Junie E. Swan, Elsie E. Coburn, and Marion L. Elwell.

Though scholars were absent only on account of sickness were able to come every day, Madeline and Louie Peabody.

Little Louie Peabody, the younger of M. O. L. Peabody, is only four years old but attended school every day for a term of ten weeks which we think is a splendid record.

At the close of the term the school was visited by the parents, the room being decorated with bunting and flowers for the occasion, Lena Sewall Herrick, teacher.

The Fourth.
A very enjoyable time was given the people who attended the celebration at Greenwood, July 3d. The Mackintosh band of North Norway furnished some very fine music.

Two very interesting ball games between Greenwood and Bryant Pond furnished excitement for the people the greater part of the day. Bryant Pond were the winners of the first game, which was played in the forenoon, by a score of 14 to 2. Hits off Seames, the pitcher of the visiting team, 6; off L. Emmons of the home team, 12. Strikes out, Seames 2; Emmons 2. Bases on balls, Seames 2; Emmons 2.

In the afternoon Greenwood got more than even with Bryant Pond by shutting them out entirely, although more than one got a man on third base with not more than one out but were unable to cross home plate through the entire game. Seame's pitching was likened to throwing a rubber ball against a building. When it reached the plate it was bounced back and so swiftly that the players were unable to handle it. The number off hits, Seames in eight innings 21; off Clifford in one inning, 4. Hits off H. Calif of Greenwood, 9. The final score being 15 to 0.

Between and following the ball games were races as follows: 100-yard dash; winner, Clifford of Milton. Boat race, winner, G. Emmons, Greenwood. Boat race, No. 2, H. Noyes, Bryant's Pond. Swimming race, W. McKay, North Norway.

Three-legged race, G. and L. Emmons of Greenwood. There is one thing which we will not fail to mention. That is, no one went hungry during the day. A few people in town were kind enough to bring food for those who had none with them so all enjoyed the picnic dinner together.

Forty-five couples remained to the dance given in Greenwood hall in the evening.

Riches in Alberta Wheat

"Get In" While You Can

The phenomenal agricultural and financial possibilities of winter wheat raising in "sunny southern Alberta, the last best west" in north-western Canada, is already widely known, and thousands of families are flocking into this agricultural El Dorado. Immense acreages, immensely rich soil, immensely great crops grown, harvested and marketed at marvellously little expense spells quick and lasting success for prompt activity there; the experience of men already on the spot PROVES this with net profits in winter wheat now ranging from $15 to $25 per acre.

...PUT A LITTLE IN...
...TAKE A LOT OUT...

From 30 to 250 per cent. on the money invested is not unusual in Alberta wheat raising. A farming syndicate just formed by me is already devoting 600 acres of Alberta soil to "Alberta red," the record winter wheat of this section; now I am forming a second syndicate, each member to put in a little cash, to buy up another undeveloped Alberta section. If I hear from you BY RETURN MAIL I can "let you in" on this syndicate at bottom price; can make you a sharer in the most profitable land deal known in America for years. Write me TODAY for facts and figures which prove the genuine value of this proposition and its positive enhancement. A special handbooks' extension is to start soon for Alberta; will you go? The entertainment given by the Y. P. C. U. of the Universalist church Thursday evening was a decided success. A large audience was present and a good sum realized. Miss Mellen, a young lady visitor and a very fine violin soloist, very kindly gave her services. Her music was greatly enjoyed and added much to the good local talent.

A very quiet 4th of July here this year. As usual the young citizens were up early Monday morning to celebrate with cannon crackers and funny tricks, and seemed to have a good time. Through the day it was very quiet, many going to Greenwood to the celebration there and others went to Bryant Pond to the base ball games.

William H. Pratt has taken to himself a housekeeper for life. Last Wednesday at the residence of Rev. J. H. Little at South Paris, he was united in marriage to Lottie Frances Allen, the simple ring service being used. Mrs. Pratt has been a successful school teacher. She has come here to share his cozy little home on Pioneer street with him. Congratulations.

THE VACUUM CARPET CLEANER

"It Eats Up the Dirt"

The Vacuum System makes house cleaning easy without taking up carpets, without dusting. The Cleaner seizes all dirt, dust, grit, germs, moths and eggs of vermin as no other system can. Neither brush nor broom, and least of all the carpet sweeper, can get at all the dirt that is lodged in carpets, rugs, matting, furniture and draperies. The Vacuum System is perfectly sanitary and hygienic. It is the thing for a few families to own a cleaner together, change work with each other and thus make a pleasure out of what has been drudgery. Price of hand machines is $25.00. For sale or to rent at Gentian Days.

The Most Beautiful of a Lovely Time of the Year.

Every wood-lover is aware of a certain subtle presence by which is known the advent of certain flowers. Emerson records of Thoreau as especially remarkable, that he knew beforehand just when to seek the orchids or cypripedium. The power is not occult or peculiar; it is the result rather, of long observation which comes to be second nature. Almost unconsciously the observer notes the signs of the times the prevalent flowers of the day, the appearance of the foliage, the number, character and kinds of birds, the quality of the very air itself. Then something within him says, "Go forth; to-day thou wilt find the hepatica and blood-root."

There are certain days particularly consecrated to the fringed gentian—dies gentiana—holy days of floral year awaiting some Kable or Herbert to sing them. They are among the most beautiful of a lovely time of the year, calm, hazy, filled with the golden glow of the mature season. Dreamy days they are, when, by preference one reads the Idylls of the King, The Earthly Paradise or the Guinevere of Hallé. It is not a time of activity, but reflection. We have now nothing to do with what Charles Lamb calls, "coursed energy." The world may revolve as it will, the gentian-lover now merely dreams in Nature's afternoon.

At this time the swamp ferns begin to glow with amber. Now the woodbine flings its triumphal banner of crimson over some sombre cedar. The green, translucent globes of the wild grape assume an amethystine hue; a belated cardinal flower still stands by the dark waters. Flung like the battle flag in St. George's chapel—or are they personal pennons of the knights of that order?—the glabrous sumac displays its leaflets scarlet, yellow and green.

Now the migrating birds gather in congress to discuss ways and means of transition. Everywhere the copes glow with stars that differ only in glory, as all are fair. They are the bright flowers of goldenrod and aster. In the meadows one finds the odorous ladies' tresses and in a swamp of the Parnassus, with green-streaked white petals.

Fringed gentian is a meteoric plant. One year we will find a meadow alive with its azure blossoms. The next season, it may be the same locality may yield not one. On a true gentian day one wanders heaven directed, for every year there are gentians somewhere, and every recurring autumn there are gentian days.

Provide Clean Water for Hogs.

Hogs should not be allowed to wallow in shallow, stagnant ponds. Although many such ponds are raised with water supply, they are disease-spreading centers and often responsible for losses that are attributed to cholera. No animal can be healthy, or produce meat of the best quality, when compelled to drink putrid water.

Where a pond is the only available source of the water supply, it should be fenced so that neither cattle nor hogs can reach it, and the water drawn off into an outside trough. This can be done by laying from the dam a half-inch galvanized pipe, the end of which should be protected by a strainer, and the outlet provided with an automatic float valve, so that the trough will be kept full, no water wasted, and a fresh supply drawn as fast as the trough is emptied. The whole arrangement can be made for less than $5. If there are trees in the pasture, a wallow is not needed.

Famous Ships in American History.

In the development as well as in the discovery of this country, certain historic ships have played important parts. We have little authentic knowledge of the vessels that bore the Norsemen to our shores, nor do we know in what manner of ships Zeno or Verrazano came to pay us a call in those early days before we were prepared for guests, but we do know something of the caravels which brought that man of determination and courage from Palos across perilous seas, in the face of appalling vicissitudes, and rewarded him with the well-earned crown of the discoverer of a continent.

Others may have preceded Columbus, but their coming and going left no important impress upon the country. So fruitless were their voyages that they might now be entirely forgotten but for the fact that Traculastis who haunts the graveyard of history and endeavor to rob every man of achievement of the laurels he has won.

The fact that Columbus is generally accorded with the discovery of America is sufficient to arouse the skepticism which brought that man of determination and courage from Palos across perilous seas, in the face of appalling vicissitudes, and rewarded him with the well-earned crown of the discoverer of a continent.

That delusive Oriental dream of the fabulous treasure of India led to our discovery. Had that great event depended upon the expedition setting forth with the locating of the western continent as its avowed purpose we might have remained undiscovered to this day, but the insatiable, intrepid Genoese for the wealth of the Indies, America got in his path and he discovered us.

Whether or not Eric or others had set foot on American soil before Columbus landed upon the forbidding shores of San Salvador, the honor justly belongs to him, for in his wake came the following, which picked this continent out of its prehistoric oblivion and set the tide westward; the tide that dared the deep, braved the wilderness, founded settlements, suffered, endured and triumphed.

To the little fleet that bore Columbus and his mutinous crews to our shores belong the first honors among the noted ships of American history.

In this day of "Mauretians," "Adriatic" and "Kaiserins" with their 24,000 to 32,000 tonnage, it is hard to conceive or appreciate the quality of courage which man must have possessed in the 15th century that tempted them to venture on such an uncertain voyage and upon unknown seas.

The "Santa Maria," the flagship of Columbus' queer little fleet, was the only decked vessel in the trio. The "Pinta" led the speed record, and the "Nina" enjoyed no more remarkable distinction than that its lateen sails added picturesqueness to the fleet.

Stormy, indeed, was that long journey, though the elements had less to do with the anxiety of the commander than the storms of mutiny among his faint-hearted sailors. In fact, history has hardly accorded due credit to the loyal Pinzon brothers, who unflinchingly stood by their admiral and helped to suppress the outbreaks and control the treacherous crews.

The three little vessels, however, braved and conquered all the evils that threatened and beset them, and bore their great commander safe into that strange port, thereby recording his name on the impenetrable pages of history as one of the greatest discoverers of all time. It is a pathetic thing that Columbus himself never appreciated the tremendous importance of his achievement. It is even more pathetic that his reward was shackles and the dungeon.

A life-sized fac simile of one of the historic caravels is now on exhibition at the Field Museum in Chicago, left as a part of the World's Fair exhibit.

The next epoch-making vessels that sought our shores were those that brought Capt. John Smith and the founders of Jamestown. The details of that historic expedition form a dark and tragic page in America's history, but from it we have our great results. The details of that colony we have in such minuteness, though but little importance seems to attach to the sturdy ships which bore the bold adventurers across the ocean to our then inhospitable shores.

It was at this time (1607) that Henry Hudson was coasting along the rocky islands to the north. He discovered Spitzbergen and then returned to England. His second voyage, the fall of 1609 the prowess of his gallant and picturesque little "Half Moon," ("Haave Maan") plowed its way through the harbor and narrows that lay to the south of Manhattan Island and sailed up the commanding river that now bears Hudson's honored name.

Like Columbus, this storm-tossed agent of the Dutch East India company was in quest of the imaginary passage to the fabled Orient, and as he sailed north past the frozen Foulies and through the Highlands, he fancied that he had at last discovered that long-sought passage that led direct to the El Dorado of his dreams.

Up to the coming of Hudson the explorers who landed north of the gulf had been content with coast settlements. The explorations of Hudson—who came more as an explorer than a discoverer—attracted attention to the vast inland region then unknown, and in the wake of the "Half Moon" came those who sought the precious furs and the Mohawk. This led to the opening of the garden lands and gave to the development of the land beyond the Catskills a tremendous impetus.

It was 11 years after Hudson's coming that those brave souls of Leyden set sail from Delft-Haven in the "Mayflower," headed for Virginia and armed with a land grant. The winds of fate, however, changed the course of the vessel, and late in November 1620, the self-same vessel reached Cape Cod harbor. A month later the Pilgrims made their permanent landing on Plymouth Rock in the biting teeth of a New England winter. Here they began their settlement

With the birth of the 19th century came an era in which navigation was completely metamorphosed and the inventive genius of America triumphed in the application of steam to water craft.

In August, 1807, Robert Fulton successfully launched his steamboat, the "Clermont," on the Hudson river, and made the trip from New York to Albany. The natives, who flocked to the banks to see the puffing, chugging boat push itself against the current, thought it possessed of evil, but the far-sighted men of the age realized that this initial trip of Fulton's little boat was an epoch-making event in the history of nations, though even the most sanguine did not dream of the developments along those lines that the century had in store.

The caravels were discoverers, the "Half Moon" was an explorer, the "Mayflower" was a developer and the "Clermont" was a revolutionist.

For ages beyond which the history of man's progress, the navigation of the world had depended upon the paddle and the sail. Now these were to be relegated and the powerful sidewheel and the miraculous propeller were to revolutionize and popularize water travel.

The launching of the "Clermont" was one of the greatest events in the history of America and of the transportation of the world. Nations were bound closer together and the importance to commerce was incalculable. The "Clermont" made possible the "Lusitania" of 1908.

These were the most famous ships in American history.

Possibly an even more important ship in the world's history was the "Savannah," the first steamship to cross the Atlantic.

In 1819 this vessel sailed from Savannah, Ga., to Liverpool, making the round trip in fine form. It is to be regretted that the pioneer in trans-Atlantic steamship navigation should make such a late start as early befell the "Savannah." It was originally a sailing vessel, which some enterprising citizens of Savannah equipped with steam for ocean travel.

Soon after its maiden voyage reverses overwhelmed its owners, the vessel was sold, dismantled and reconstructed into a sailboat, soon to be wrecked on the shores of Long Island where its frame now lies imbedded in the sands.

Sewing Room Should Be Bright.

The sewing room, whose furnishing costs but little, is a necessity.

The essential for such a room is that it should be exceedingly light. Where there are two windows the sewing machine would naturally be placed at one, while the necessary working paraphernalia would be arranged about the other.

Bare painted floors are best. Footstools are really necessary, while the window curtains must be of the case-matter order, which can be drawn right back to the extreme sides to admit of as much light as possible.

A good table, such as one would purchase for a kitchen or nursery, must be provided for cutting out, a couple of smaller tables being very useful for the sewers to spread their odds and ends upon.

A fairly broad window-shelf is also a desirable addition to a room of this description and on this window-shelf should rest a large, substantial, well-filled pin-cushion, while the sides of the window books would hold the regulation number of scissors, etc., required by workers.

The chairs should be low to be comfortable. Those with wooden arms are good to provide resting places for cottons and thimbles.

A higher chair with a straight back will be required for the sewing machine. There should be a mirror which can be easily moved to obtain the best light.

Games to Play on "Witches' Night."

One way to decide the all-important question of futures is with the French "serpentes," which are now sold in all large shops. These are tossed over the left shoulder exactly as we used to throw fruit peelings. The letter formed by the serpent when it falls is that of the husband or wife to be.

Amusing fortunes can be inclosed in envelopes and tied upon a chord stretched across the room. Each player is blindfolded and told to clip a fortune which he or she must accept as indicative of personal fate. There should be one set of fortunes for the men and another for the girls.

Another way to play this future game is to place on each piece of paper in a paper-mache apple, heaping up the "make believe" apples on a plate or in a basket and having each player make a selection.

A Halloween race is picturesque and easily arranged. For it, secure two or three little bags of colored confetti and pour the contents into a dish. Let each contestant dip up a spoonful of the pretty fragments and run with it three times around the room. He or she who completes the race with the most confetti on the spoon will be the first of all those present to be married.

Another good frolic is the game of named chairs played like the old game of "Going to Jerusalem." Here each of the men present is given a bow of ribbon. Each bow is different in color. Each young fellow attaches his ribbon to some certain chair and the chairs are placed back to back.

The glances blindfolded, one at a time. The seeker after fate makes her way blindly around the chairs, inspired by some dreamy waltz music played near by. The music ceases suddenly in the middle of a bar. This is a signal for the player to occupy the chair nearest which she happens to be. The ribbon on the chair is supposed to give a broad hint as to the wearer's matrimonial destiny.

HARRISON.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Weaver of Augusta and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Thurlay spent Sunday at their cottage in Harrison, making the trip from Augusta in their Stanley steamer.

Chas. L. Chaplin and family and Bert Kendall and family went to East Stoneham last Friday to attend the celebration and to cut the grass on the Chaplin place. They expect to work out haying for some of the folks there for a few weeks.

The fourth of July ball at Kilgore's hall was attended by a large crowd. A good time and delicious supper.

OXFORD.

Fourth of July Celebration.

The celebration began promptly at midnight Sunday night, and continued almost without intermission until nearly midnight Monday.

The day was all that one could ask for sport, and the rain of Saturday rendered the roads free from dust. The small boy and some larger ones had their inning from midnight until morning and everything that could make a noise was pressed into service. The school and church bells were rung and many people had to hunt for their furniture and wagons left out of doors over night.

At 6.30 a. m. the horribles made their appearance, headed by a band marched around the square and up High street. The parade was more than good, many of the turnouts and rigs being original, and the hits on the barber shops and motor boats were the most conspicuous. The judges on the best get up were W. E. Gammon, Dr. Harry Farris and George Hazen. They awarded first prize $3, to Archie Smith's barber shop, second prize $2, to the band and third prize $1, to Chester McAllister.

At 9 a. m. the racing began on King street near the band stand. The first was over ten hurdles. Fred Glover won first money $2, Otto Holden second, $1. George Heslop was in this race and was pressing the leader hard but caught on the ninth hurdle and fell.

The egg race was won by Rudolph Walker, Bean 2d, prizes 75 and 50 cents. The 50 yard sack race was won by Walter Bean, Thomas Lessaw 2d, prizes $1 and 50 cents.

In the 100 yard run for boys aged 8 to 11 Quinn 1st, Guy 2d, Birdie Smith 3d, prizes $1, 75 and 50 cents. At 1.30 p. m. a change of base was made across the river to Pleasant street, and the first event on was a three legged race. It was won by Otto Holden and Walter Bean, Rudolph Walker and Willie Bean taking second money, $2 and $1.

In the 100 yard dash for boys 12 to 15 years of age, Guy Barker finished first, Fred Gammon second, Wallace Wood third, prizes $1.50, $1 and 50 cents.

In the 100 yard dash for girls, A. M. Brown won, with F. C. Tucker 2d. The winners were from Camp Oxford. Prizes $2 and $1.

The wheelbarrow race was won by Arthur G. Hayes, $1.

In the 100 yard dash Fred Glover 1st, George Heslop 2d, prizes $2 and $1. In tug of war the team captained by Dr. Farris won, prize $2.

In the 220 yard dash free for all A. M. Brown 1st, F. C. Tucker 2d, A. G. Hayes 3d, prizes $2, $1 and 75 cents.

In the pie eating contest Linwood Jackson devoured his pie in record time, A. Smith, Jr., 2d, prizes 75 and 50 cents.

In the mile run around the oval in school yard 15 laps to the mile was the most interesting race of the day. The starters were Sam Tripp, Otto Holden, Arthur Hayes, Weaver, Bowker and Faulkner. They all gave up the ghost except the winners of first and second money, Faulkner and Weaver. This pair looked fit to run and could have gone faster and farther had they been forced. Sam Tripp, who has talked about this race for a week, and could beat any man in town, run four laps and collapsed.

The basket ball game was thoroughly enjoyed by the crowd as well as the players, and the grassy turf in the school yard made an ideal spot to fall on.

The water carnival in the evening was grand. The shores on both sides of the outlet were lined with Japanese lanterns and each stump carried at least one while the motor boats that whizzed back and forth were literally covered with lanterns and bright colored paper. It made a fitting climax to the day's sport, and was certainly the best Fourth of July celebration seen in Oxford for many years.

The usual Saturday night dance in Robinson hall was well patronized. Blanch Smith and friend from Minot, attended the celebration at Oxford.

Henry Klous of Lawrence, Mass., is visiting his friend, John B. Robinson.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Walker of Portland, spent the Fourth with Mr. Walker's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Seldom of Portland are visiting with Mrs. Seldom's brother, Carroll Curtis.

Everett Cook went to Kineo, Wednesday. Everett has employment at the Mr. Kineo house for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. George Seldom of Portland, celebrated the Fourth with Mrs. Seldom's mother, Mrs. Hattie Farnham.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Russell of Auburn, visited with Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Walker, Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

The officers of Orange Lodge, K. of P. were installed Tuesday evening, by district deputy, A. M. Chase, of Bryant Pond.

Charles Bryant's farm buildings were burned at an early hour this morning. Cause of fire not known at present writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Leland Stone of Portland, are spending a ten days' vacation with Mrs. Stone's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Wardwell.

Stephen Jilison was in Boston last week and purchased a new auto. It is a slick article and fairly eats up the road between the G. T. station and the village.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Wardwell are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Wardwell. Mr. Wardwell has sold his property in Arrostook county and does not intend to return there.

The Camp Oxford boys played the town boys Saturday, and defeated them 7 to 0. The camp boys have a slick battery and after a few games are played it will take a pretty stiff team to beat them.

Mr. and Mrs. James Favor of Norway, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hall and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Andrews of Augusta, were the guests during the week of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Hayes, the parents of these ladies.

Oxford division of Sons of Temperance held their regular meeting Thursday evening, July 8. The officers elected for the ensuing term were installed. The members present voted to suspend further meetings until September.
